

YOUR TABLE IS WAITING...

at Charleston's most historic restaurant.

History and tradition welcome guests to 82 Queen.

Like stepping back in time, nothing compares to the dining experience in this charming restaurant nestled in Charleston's historic French Quarter. Wrought iron arches from the home of Margaret Mitchell grace its entrance, while many swear they see the ghosts of Scarlett O'Hara and Rhett Butler in the romantic garden courtyard.

Combining both the fantasy and the reality of the Old South for more than 22 years; 82 Queen is renowned for its grace and casual air, its charming Southern décor, and its superb service. Authentic Lowcountry cuisine, simple and yet complex in its preparation and presentation, coupled with an award-winning wine list make dining at 82 Queen an incomparable experience.
